There will be two presentations made at this meeting:

Jacob Spangenberg

Jacob serves as the Mayor of Östhammar, which is the host municipality for Sweden's deep geological repository. He has been in office since first elected in 2006.

Jacob holds a diploma in Agriculture, and spent 25 years working as an agricultural extension officer and consultant in Sweden, as well as 6 years in development assistance in Africa.

He will speak to his community's experience with the Swedish project to store used nuclear fuel.

Saida Engström

Saida currently serves as an advisor at a Swedish energy company. Her previous role was as a Vice President at SKB, which is the organization responsible for managing used nuclear fuel in Sweden.

She has spent decades working in the nuclear industry, including as the Project Manager for site selection and as a Nuclear Safety Inspector.

Saida will address the process that is taking place in Sweden, and highlight her experience in the industry.
